The concept revolves around the fact that music can reach out to the soul and connect people. Thus, in contrast to other activities and meetings, music was chosen as the means to revitalizing cultural heritage sites like Kanina Castle, as a landmark of the cultural heritage in the city of Vlora. Kanina, is a hilltop fortress built in the 4th century B.C. that offers spectacular views over Vlora and the sea. It is located on Shushica Mountain and covers almost 4.000 hectares, kas the “balcony of Vlora”.

Since the 15th of August is the date when the village celebrates its cultural heritage at the castle, our organization chose to organize a meeting promoting the cultural heritage sites of the city through the musical performance of local youngsters Enea Fetau and Redi Rrapaj playing in piano bar and violin. The instrumental music was a mix between traditional Albanian music of the region and modern. During the musical performance in the background, pictures and videos from different cultural heritage sites and the importance of their promotion were shown and people were interested to know more about culture heritage.

Location / Dates: The event took place online, organized by the project leader Local Democracy Agency Mostar on 28/05/2020

Short description: The aim of the event was to raise awareness on connections of the collective cultural heritage in the tapestry of Europe's rich and diverse culture.

The online final international event titled "Regenerating heritage: new life for abandoned industrial, religious, military or public buildings" gathered representatives of cultural actors (state and non-state), heritage experts, local authorities, architects, CSOs and youth groups in order to share and discuss smart restoration, renovation or transformation of heritage sites such as abandoned industrial, religious, military or public buildings. Attendees had the opportunity to listen to the respected experts in the field of cultural heritage, coming from the public and educational institutions as well as from organizations dealing with this topic. After the introduction and project presentation by moderator the representative of Commission to Preserve National Monuments (B&H), and the CLINK project manager, the panellists presented further themes: "Mapping of the industrial heritage of Sisak Potentials of local development"; "Industrial heritage role in developing countries - importance of integrated sustainable approach in Bosnia and Herzegovina"; "Spolio, reuse, action"; Educational significance of the exhibition "Industrialization in progress" and its impact on the social verification of industrial heritage in BiH and the presentation of the joint statement by project partners.

The Joint Statement was also result of the Research in the communities – mapping potential cultural heritage sites with potential for adaptive re-use, completed in 9 partners communities:
